

How Quiltworx Retreats Work:

Retreat check-in begins at 3pm. Many students arrive on their own schedule throughout the afternoon. Attendees are invited to get to know each other and settle in during this time. You are welcome to set up your sewing machine and sew during this time as well! Judy will arrive before dinnertime to meet with each attendee. She will assess individual projects and skill levels so that she can make her teaching plan for the week.

Class officially begins the next morning. Judy usually arrives in the morning between 9:30 and 10 am after breakfast is finished up. She spends her days working with the retreat attendees and usually leaves sometime after dinner. What time she leaves in the evening varies depending on her work obligations.

Judy often stays for the evening to socialize with her students. Her daughter Judel is instrumental in orchestrating the retreats and is frequently in and out of the retreat center. We are a family oriented business so you may also get the opportunity to meet Judy's husband, children, grandchildren, or other family and friends while staying with us. We feel that this gives you an opportunity to gain insight into who Judy is!

Everyone is welcome to keep their own sewing schedule while staying with us. If you are an early riser you are welcome to take advantage of the sewing room as soon as you wake up. We also have many retreat attendees that sew well into the night!

You are required to bring at least one project ready to start sewing on. The pre-cutting on many of Judy's patterns takes quite a bit of time and space. While there are cutting stations available, there are not enough for all 10 students to cut out their fabrics at the same time. This also allows Judy to get everyone started sewing right away. She can then focus on questions, demos, and teaching technique much faster. You are welcome to choose any of Judy's patterns to work on. Many retreat attendees also choose to bring a couple different projects to work on, especially if they have questions on projects and would like Judy's insight.

We provide cutting mats for each sewing station and sewing machines are available for rental if needed. We have several pressing stations available in the room as well. We have Judy's favorite paper piecing tools available for sale, along with basic sewing supplies such as Mettler Thread and Schmetz needles. We also have a large selection of Judy's patterns available. If there is something that you would like and don't see it we would be happy to bring it from the office.

Judy or her Certified Instructor will host a trunk show at the Quiltworx Warehouse on the second or third evening. This will also give everyone a chance to see where we work and examples of some of Judy's favorite quilts.

We allow you to run a tab for your patterns and notions while you are staying with us. Checkout is scheduled for the last weekday morning of the retreat, and you will be required to settle up this amount by check, credit card, or cash. You will receive two invoices at the end of the retreat, one for any items that you've put on your tab and one for your lodging facility tax. If you end up having too much to fit in your suitcase, you can see the office staff about having items shipped.

Meals are served during the following time frames:

Breakfast (self-serve): Anytime before 9:30am

Lunch: 12 - 12:00

Dinner: 6 – 6:30

We do our best to serve meals at these times, but occasionally situations will arise to postpone them. (i.e. food is not heating fast enough, catering delivery was late, etc.) We do our best to keep these occurrences to a minimum, but they do happen.

There are plenty of snack options available. If you are concerned about having a certain item on a daily basis, please notify us ahead of time and we will see if this is a request we can accommodate, or if this is something that you will need to supply yourself.

We do not provide meals on the days of check-in or check-out. You may purchase your own food and cook in the kitchen at the retreat center or go out. Doordash, pizza delivery etc... may be available, but should not be relied on due to our rural location.

During the retreat we provide light housekeeping. The sewing room is vacuumed daily, and the rest of the retreat center is attended to as needed throughout the retreat. We also have a laundry room available for your use during your stay at a cost of $1 per load. We provide staff to serve meals, clean up afterwards, and take care of the dishes. We want your focus with us to be on enjoying yourself, not on household tasks!

If you have additional questions or concerns about how our retreats are run please feel free to email them to retreats@quiltworx.com or call the office at 406-393-2646.
